Dear Mr Ford

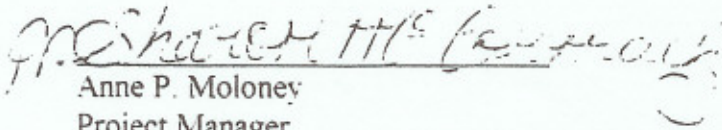

In reference to your visit to our centre on August 8th 1999 and thank you for your remittance of IR£32.00.

After a thorough and detailed search of 23 of the 46 parishes in the Archdiocese of Cashel and Emly we are pleased to inform you that we were successful in locating the following:

- The Baptismal Record of Bridget Creed and her siblings
- The Marriage Record of Margaret Tierney and Thomas Creed (Bridget's Parents)
- The Baptismal Record of Margaret Tierney
- The Baptismal Record of Thomas Creed

Margaret Tierney and Thomas Creed were quiet young when they married at 16 years old but this would not have been unusual in the Ireland of this period. We hope we have been of some assistance to you in your research and if we can be of any help in the future please do not hesitate to contact us.

Yours sincerely

Anne P. Moloney

Hints on How to Find Out About Your Roots Step by Step

1. Try to get as much concrete information down on paper as possible, e.g. the Christian name and the surname of the person you are trying to trace and their issue (sons and daughters).
2. List all siblings (brothers and sisters) if possible, together with the Christian name of the father, the mother's maiden name and Christian name and any known aunts and uncles.
3. Talk to old relatives, if possible, and find out where the family homestead was located if you don't already know. The name of the parish would help a great deal or indeed the townland, taking into consideration that one already knows the county involved.
4. A death certificate or a marriage certificate can often provide relevant information and we at T.H.U. depend on this source quite a bit if the enquirer has fairly sketchy information.
5. Gravestones can be another source of information as can newspaper clippings, family bibles, census returns and shipping records.
6. If the person you are trying to trace married in Ireland please give the bride's maiden name and the names of their children whether born in Ireland or not. Remember the first son was usually named after the paternal grandfather. Remember also that a marriage record is usually found in the parish that the bride was born in or lived in.
7. Finally, if in doubt, contact:
